Noise Like "Bloomin' Bedlam" Traced To Class In Oratory

Johnny Martin Hears Fearsome Sounds in Y. M. C. A. and Investigates

"England's sun was slowly setting," "On the —buh-buh-buh—, ha-ba-ba-ski-yip; shall not ring to-ah-ah-ah-ea-eb-eb-skump-p."

"Sounds wuss nor a bloomin' bedlam," said Johnny Martin the other night as he sat in the "Y" lobby trying to read the Christian Advocate and at the same time to shut his ears to the fearsome noises and gruesome shrieks that emanated from beneath the threshold of the tightly closed door of Cooke Hall.

It was now after nine o'clock and there were no signs of abatement nor was there anything that occurred which might serve as an explanation to the weird incantations that were being muttered on the other side of the closed portals.

Hastily summoning the chess-players in the lobby and enlisting them as a bodyguard, the evangelist stealthily approached the door and put his eye to the keyhole.

As he watched the gathering of light seemingly crazed mortals inside, he grew more puzzled. For suddenly, without warning, Supervising Principal George S. Raymond began taking gigantic steps from one side of the room to the other, at the same time exclaiming "Ee Ha; ee-ha; ee-ha; ee-ha." In one corner of the room stood Peter Tasch, who from time to time would emit a shrill squeal as he inhaled and exhaled in cadence to a monotonous chant.

A little to the right of Tasch stood A. E. Larimer, who was declaiming "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," with appropriate gestures. A few paces away from him stood Professor Wilson Fritch, who was directing the movements. It was not until he saw Fritch that Johnny Martin, who had been making a graphic word picture of what was going on within to his bodyguard, understood the cause of the strange shrieks and howlings; the wheezes and the whistles.

It was the first meeting of the class in public speaking which for a space of ten weeks will meet in Cooke Hall every Monday evening.

"I AM GOING," SAYS YOUTH, AND HE DIES

He Had Just Returned From Funeral of His Fiancee.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 9.—"I have heard her call me three times; I am going,"

With these words Albert Martin Garmes, 19 years old, fell dead here yesterday. He had just returned to the home of M. R. Castro, from the funeral of his fiancee, Carrie Shewbridge, who was Castro's daughter.

Five members and friends of the Castro family say they heard the youth make the remark, as he sat on a couch in the living-room of the Castro home, and saw him fall dead a moment later.

An autopsy was performed today. No trace of poison was found, but a heart lesion was found, which physicians say caused his death.

MEN ARE AS HELPLESS AS CHILDREN

When Taken Suddenly Ill — Here Is a Common-Sense Safeguard

Big, strong man is as a helpless infant when he is suddenly ill.

The sturdiest chap in town usually loses his self-control, and is utterly unable to regard his condition with the common sense that characterizes his every-day actions.

For example: He comes home tired, eats a heavy dinner and sits down to read and smoke away a quiet evening.

Suddenly he notices a weight on his stomach; then sharp pains around his heart, and a feeling of suffocation. Thoughts of "heart disease" rush over him, and in his agony he fears the worst.

His trouble was acute indigestion, brought on by overloading his tired stomach.

A couple of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets might have given him relief—might have saved him hours of suffering.

Carry a package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets in your vest pocket or keep them in your room. Take one after each heavy meal, and ward off indigestion.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets relieve stomach troubles by aiding nature to supply those elements, the absence of which in the gastric juices, causes indigestion and dyspepsia. They tend to aid the stomach to digest all kinds of food and to quickly convert it into rich red blood.

We know what Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are and what they will do. We guarantee them to relieve indigestion and dyspepsia. If they fail, we will refund your money.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Sold only at our store or by mail. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., Fort and Hotel Sts.

BEARS DO NOT EAT FOR THREE MONTHS IN WINTER

WASHINGTON, June 29.—An interesting dissertation on bears appears in a publication just issued by the Smithsonian Institution. It deals in part with the remarkable success of W. R. Large, proprietor of a summer resort in Northern Ohio, in breeding bears. They rarely breed in captivity, but that this Buckeye has raised 68 cubs in 21 years is a statement made by Assistant Superintendent Baker of the National Zoological Park, in this city.

Speaking of the hibernation of Lodge's bears, Baker, who furnished the material for the Smithsonian publication, says:

"In the fall of the year, when the bears are about to retire for the winter, they become very fat. As cold weather approaches, large quantities of leaves are thrown into the pit and are carried by the bears into their dens. Much of their time is spent there, but they come out for an occasional meal until the advent of settled cold, about the middle of December, when they finally retreat to their dens for the winter. Generally they come out from hibernation early in March, having remained in seclusion for about three months. The bear always comes out, after hibernating for two or three months, in practically as good a condition as when they went in, none of them showing thinness, despite the fact that they have eaten nothing during that time."

NEW PAPER MONEY FOR CHINESE REPUBLIC

English on One Side and Chinese on the Other

While Hawaii has been indirectly honored through the profile of Sun Yat Sen appearing on the face of the new dollar of the Chinese Empire, the paper money of the new republic carries another face than his.

The first issue of paper money for the new Chinese Republic is now being printed by the American Bank Note Company of New York. At the offices of that company great secrecy is being observed "at the behest of the republic," so the officials put it in regard to the amount of this issue.

This issue is made primarily to retire the money of the old empire (the surcharged issue of 1908), which was ordered by the National Chinese Bank of Taching. This money, also printed by the American Bank Note Company, bore the signature and portrait of the great Chinese diplomat, Li Hung Chang.

But both signature and portrait of Li Hung Chang will be seen no more for the present, at least, upon the republic's currency. The new bills will have the portrait of the great Mencius, the Latinized from the mangtze, "the philosopher Mencius, sage of the second degree," and second only to Confucius in the estimation of the Chinese. Mencius died in the year 289 B. C.

Few of those who made the Chinese empire great in the past earned the reputation that he did as philosopher, scholar, student and patriot. Great temples were built in his honor, and at this date he of all others was selected as the most fitting to grace the new republic's paper money.

While in many respects this new issue of paper money will follow the general design of the issue which it will retire, there are some notable changes from the Taching Bank currency. The new bills will show the tendency of the times toward increased white space, which printers agree is the hardest of all to imitate. They will be of unusual dignity, both in character and design. It will consist of bills in denominations of $1, $5, $10, $50 and $100.

There is one interesting fact about the new republic's new money: One side of the notes will be printed in Chinese, the other in English, and the standard value will be the American dollar.

The bill will be signed by D. C. Woo, President of the Bank of China, which has succeeded the Taching Bank as China's national financial institution, and by Dr. Chin Tao Chen. The Bank of China occupies the same position toward the new republic that the Bank of England does to the British Empire.

THE WORLD'S TELEPHONES SOLAR ECLIPSES

This country does more telephoning than any other nation in the world. It is estimated that 14,500,000 conversations took place over the phones of the United States in 1911. That sum represents 66 per cent of the world's communications by telephone. On the first of this year there were 7,595,938 telephones in use in this country, which means that we had 67.4 per cent of the total number of the world's phones. Thus we have 8.1 telephones for every 100 of our population. Bosnia has the fewest phones, followed by Greece and Serbia in the order named. The German empire, our closest competitor in this, is credited with 1,068,849 telephones, 1.6 to every 100 persons, but on the basis of population Denmark, Sweden and Norway outrank Germany, having 3.5, 3.4 and 2.6 phones per 100 of population. Great Britain, on January 1st, has 648,832 phones. In proportion to its population, Los Angeles in the United States, has more telephones than any other city in the world, 24 per 100 population, while Stockholm, with 19.9 phones, is second. The world's telephone mileage is placed at 26,962,107 miles, of which the United States has 16,754,000 miles, over 60 per cent of the total mileage. The German empire has 3,553,504 miles, Great Britain 2,116,368 miles, while on the basis of investment the United States leads with $956,700,000 invested, as against $518,400,000 for all Europe. The foregoing and other interesting statistics appear in a pamphlet issued by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

BOYS OF KAKAOKO LISTEN TO BEAR STORIES

One hundred boys of the Kakaako district met at the Kakaako clubhouse last night and listened to a series of "bear stories" that from the point of eloquence surpassed those in Roosevelt's "African Game Trails."

George Thayer, who some months ago walked across the isthmus of Panama and returned last week from a pedestrian tour of the islands, was the speaker and for an hour he held the boys enthralled with hair-raising tales of his adventures hunting bear and other big game in the Rockies.

The boys made no pretense at concealing their interest and plied the speaker with questions as to what kind of food bears ate and if they ate people and similar information, indispensable if one wishes to hunt bear. The tales told by the veteran pedestrian were taken from some of his personal experiences.

After this week, C. F. Loomis, who is in charge of the work at Kakaako will close the clubhouse until next September, when school opens for the year 1912-1913.
